Around Saint Patrick's Day of 2009 we did a session in a local Chinese restaurant. I was pretty convinced that the management had no idea what I was talking about when I asked about playing there, but they heard 'music' and figured 'what the heck' (or whatever the Mandarin equivalent is). As it turned out we had about eight musicians playing in a space in front of the fish tank that could accommodate maybe three comfortably. The patrons were naturally surprised (Irish music in the Peking Palace?) but seemed to enjoy it, as did the fish. As of this writing we haven't been invited back . . . (May 2018 update: the place has changed ownership - I don't know if the new proprietors kept the entertainment license or not.)
