After many years of consideration by whoever is in charge of these matters, Capuchin Father Solanus Casey OFM (1870-1957) was beatified in November 2017. Eventually - nothing moves quickly in Rome - Solanus is going to be the first Irish-American saint. Deservedly so: his life and works are models of patience and piety as well as immense love for his Lord, the Blessed Mother, and for humanity.

Solanus' biography (www.solanuscasy.org) mentions the fact that Solanus was also a fiddler, but evidently his musical efforts were not always appreciated by his fellow monks! Judging by the brief sound clip on the website, you can kind of understand why. . .
