

Fairly Shut of Her

"Altho McGoun's tune was at hand for years, and was not known to our traditional musicians, I hesitated to claim it as Irish, until O'Farrell specifically notes it as being Irish in his 'Collection for the Irish or Union Pipes'. Few variants, while preserving a distinct strain, differ so widely in their development. O'Farrell was a renowned Irish piper who took part in operatic performances on the London stage late in the 18th Century."
